People and markets

■ Salomon Brothers has appointed Miranda Xafa as vice president in the economic and market analysis department in London. She will be responsible for coverage of economic and financial trends in Eastern and south-eastern Europe, including Greece and Turkey, with particular emphasis on the outlook for the region's currency and asset markets.

Xafa previously served as chief economic adviser to the Prime Minister of Greece from 1991 to 1993. During this time she was on leave from her position as senior economist for the IMF in Washington DC which she joined in 1980.

However, she also taught economics at both the University of Pennsylvania and Princeton University.
